Short Description

Many people contact us with an idea for a particular build that appeals to them but without the knowledge necessary to make a start and wade through the vast array of component and powertrain choices available on the conversion market today. We will engage with the client and, over a 3 day period, design the best system to suit the needs and budget. Communication can be via voice/video/in person per mutual agreement. A two page document will be supplied at the end of the process summarising the design and component choices to the client's satisfaction. Arranged within 72 hours. Subject to normal working hours and Irish time zone. Follow up communication at our discretion.
